The Dying Teach Us How To Live
Kelly Grosklags, LICSW, BCD

Featured Speaker

Kelly Grosklags,
LICSW, BCD, Oncology
Psychotherapist,
Fellow - American
Academy of Grief
Counseling

Kelly Grosklags

For nearly 25 years, Kelly has dedicated her practice to minimizing suffering through her work in oncology, palliative care and hospice. An experienced therapist and gifted speaker, Kelly frequently speaks about end of life care, and grief and loss issues at hospitals, clinical conferences, churches, funeral homes and schools. Her passionate and supportive demeanor helps patients, caregivers and health professionals connect with the wisdom of dying a good death, making life more meaningful, coping with depression and anxiety, transforming fear into hope and healing versus curing.

Kelly is a board certified diplomat in clinical social work and earned a fellowship in grief counseling from the American Academy of Health Care Professionals. She earned a master's degree in clinical social work from the University of St. Thomas/University of St. Catherine and currently sits on the board of directors for the Angel Foundation, a non-profit organization supporting families living with cancer.

She created Conversations with Kelly as a public health forum to broaden her reach as a psychotherapist, social worker and healer for patients and families. Kelly's private psychotherapy practice is located in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and she is writing a book of stories from cancer survivors and their caregivers.
